

Appl. No. 10/629,081
Amdt. dated January 19, 2005
Reply to Office action of July 21, 2004

Amendments to the Specification:

Please replace the paragraph beginning at page 2, line 1, with the following rewritten paragraph:

This problem has been overcome in Australian Petty Patent No. 691,464 to present inventor by the provision of a golf club holding apparatus comprising a cover adapted to fit across a [gold] golf bag. The cover has two or more ridges which are separately inclined from the horizontal so that each aperture thereof is at a different height. In this way, all of the club heads located in the apertures are vertically spaced apart from each other so as to enable the golfer or caddy to readily access and easily extract the appropriate club from the golf bag.
